Chestnut-bellied Seed-Finch known in Brazil like curió or avinhado is a small bird of the family Traupidae (CBRO,2014) with distribution of México to Bolívia, Paraguai and Argentina and in almost all of Brazil and it's knowing to feed mainly seeds of Cyperus rotundus (Sick,1997).

As a result of studies and surveys conducted on Agenor Campos, Mongaguá, São Paulo state, Bazil, on 30 January and 05 February, 2015, about 8am and 2pm, the author, with friends Carlos R.Ghirelli and biol. Antonio Bordignon, birdwatchers, observed and recorded by photo (below) Sporophila angolensis perched on small tree near unpaved road (Fazenda road), in region knowing by Sertão, in Mongaguá municipality, south of São Paulo state, Brazil. (24°03' 35.87" S/46°42'06.27"W- region reference).

This rare bird mainly for his arrest because of his famous and beautiful singing responds to the playback and so it is easy to capture.

On both occasions, we used the playback system and soon it's appeared, perched near us and singing enough. It was photographed and recorded the vocalization that was deposited in author's files and the Internet (A ÚLTIMA ARCA DE NOÉ. 2015)

Because it is a difficult species to be seen today we decided to publish this simple note for the record that can help in ecological study of this species in the future.
